As we journey through life we encounter many different experiences, many of which we may feel deserve the opportunity to be honoured, blessed and celebrated in a way that has meaning and purpose for you.

This may be a new house, the start of a new business, a birthday, a graduation, a family reunion, whatever occasion you feel deserves some celebrations that is meaningful to you.

You may have a much-loved family pet that has died and you'd like to hold a ceremony in their memory.

Some people may feel it appropriate to hold a divorce or separation ceremony as a way of lovingly releasing a partner from their life and wishing them happiness in their new life.

There are no limits to creating heartfelt and fun ceremony to mark any special event deserving a celebration.

You may have no religious beliefs but just feel that some event in your life requires some form of recognition or celebration.

Ceremonies can include elements of practices from various traditions and faiths, even if you have no set religious belief but would like to celebrate in the way that just feels right and comfortable for you

You may have a special place you wish to use; such as at home, in your garden, on board boats etc. Anywhere you like!

As an Interfaith Minister I will work with you to create a moving, nourishing and personally meaningful occasion, to suit you and your wishes

THE INTERFAITH SEMINARY UK
